YOUTH PROBLEM IS AIRED

The newly formed Daly City Youth Commission, potentially strong because of its diverse membership of businessmen, clergy, students and law enforcement officers, met Monday Apr. 30 at city hall to "help the youth situation" of Daly City.

The meeting, called by Mayor Joseph Verducci to "pinpoint certain areas wherin constructive improvements can be made in any activity which affects our youth" lasted from 8 to 10 p.m. Some 40 persons attended. Chairman is councilman Robert St. Clair.

At least 20 representatives were asked to speak on why they were interested in youth problems and what they thought they could do about them.

Informative talks were given by members of the San Francisco Youth Commission, county probation department and school districts.

Stephen Brown, president of the San Francisco Council for Youth presented the following statistics taken from a 1960 survey of the University of San Francisco. The survey was of 1427 juveniles involved in cases before the San Francisco Juvenile Court.

1. 59.3 per cent of the youths arrested were white; 3 per cent Mexican and 30.7 per cent Negro.
2. The crime rate doubled from ages 10-14.

SF Water Reduction Rates Negligible To Daly City

The new water rate reduction for San Francisco and its suburban customers went into effect May 1, but will not affect the rates of Daly City residents.

"Daly City purchases less than 10 per cent of its water from San Francisco — 90 per cent comes from our own wells," said Bill Chapman, Daly City director of public works.

"Actually the cost of San Francisco water to the city almost exceeds that which we charge for Daly City water," he said. "What this actually means is that the city will lose less money."

The lower rates will save Daly City an almost negligible $165 per month in purchasing costs from San Francisco.

The reduction, which is equal to about 7 per cent of Daly City's total purchase from San Francisco, will save the city approximately $2,000 per year.

The new schedule reduces San Francisco water rates 6.8 per cent, it was pointed out by James H. Turner, general manager of the water department.

The reduction, authorized in March by the Public Utilities Commission, applies to wholesale customers who have signed long-term contracts to purchase all or part of their supplemental water from the water department.

This includes all of the water department's wholesale customers in San Mateo County.

In addition to the 5.6 per cent rate reduction, the suburban wholesale customers will also benefit from two additional blocks in the water department schedule which will provide even lower rates for volume sales.

Commenting on the difference between the 6.8 per cent reduction in San Francisco and the 5.6 per cent in the suburban area, Turner pointed out that this will continue to maintain the historical difference of about 18 per cent between pricing of water sales inside and outside the city.

He noted that the water department paid more than $935,000 in taxes last year to San Mateo, Santa Clara and Alameda Counties.

The new rate schedule will result in a revenue reduction of $866,000 for the water department, and represents the first action of the Public Utilities Commission in making progressive reductions in accordance with a policy announced last year.

Passage of the commission's $115,000,000 water bond issue in November led directly to the reduction.

"The customers of the San Francisco Water Department over the years have paid a relatively high water rate in order to finance the cost of bringing high quality water from the Tuolumne River watershed in the High Sierra," Turner said.

"It is now time for these customers to reap some benefit from their past participation in the development of our water and power system."

2-ALARM FIRE DESTROYS ROOFING CO.

A spectacular two-alarm fire sent sheets of flames and clouds of smoke high into the air to mar the Daly City skyline at sunset Monday evening.

The blaze, which destroyed five trucks, a shed and roofing material at the Goodwin Roofing Company, 1861 Junipero Serra boulevard, near the Knowles avenue intersection, caused an estimated $40,000 to $50,000 damage.

Five trucks and 30 Daly City firemen responded to the fire and battled it for 45 minutes before bringing it under control. Traffic on Junipero Serra was rerouted because of the congestion created by the blaze.

According to firemen, the blaze was first discovered at 7:36 p.m. when a resident of Niantic avenue, which borders the rear of the roofing yard, reported that smoke was coming from the lean-to housing the trucks.

Minutes later when firemen reached the blaze it had spread to the adjoining roofing material and four trucks. The fire, cause of which has not yet been determined, started in a 250-gallon butane truck.

The heat caused the safety valve on the truck to release

Disorderly Person Gets His Kicks

Officer Dennis Sheehy and Sgt. Gordon Sims ran into a little difficulty early last Saturday morning while attempting to book U. C. Williams, 21, of 785 Lakeview, San Francsico, on disorderly charges.

Williams became beligerent when Officer Sheehy questioned him in a car parked at 20 San Pedro avenue. Then Williams ran into the house at 20 San Pedro with Sheehy in pursuit and slammed the door, striking Sheehy's leg.

The "suspect" and his mother-in-law then flailed at Officer Sheehy with hand and purse. Officer Sims arrived, and after packing Williams off to headquarters, was forced to strike back when Williams kicked at his groin. Williams was booked for resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and refusing to identify himself.

Wild Ride As Brakes Fail On Jitney Bus

The brakes failed on a jitney bus April 25, giving five passengers and the driver the thrill of their lives.

The only reported injury was a sore neck suffered by Mrs. Alice Boldt of 65 Pacifica avenue, Daly City.

The 26-passenger bus, driven by Carl V. Ahlgren, 37, of San Francisco, was going east on Eastmoor drive down a steep incline when the brakes failed to hold at Mirada avenue.

Ahlgren applied the handbrake but was able to slow the vehicle only slightly. The bus shot into the Junipero Serra boulevard intersection just as the lights turned green. Ahlgreen managed to steer the careening bus into the right-turn channel and then across the highway, plowing through a traffic island in the center.

The bus continued on down D street and finally spun around, jumped a curb and came to rest with its rear end up against an embankment.

Youth Problem

were unemployed.

7. 13.1 had unfavorable home conditions. 59.1 per cent were listed as "nothing wrong with family."

8. ¾ of the crimes committed were "active."

Probation assistant chief Anthony Lavoi had the following to say: "Many problem children become so because of failures in school. They don't like school. It is pressure to them. There is a lack of stability with the parents. Fifty-two per cent seem to be separated by divorce or death. Cases show a weak father and aggressive mother. The boy is of average intellect. They have a common dislike for school. They drop out, join a gang. They hate school, their fathers, the cops. They have a lot in common. The police come in contact with them first. Then the judge gets them, then us. He doesn't like society. He strikes back. He strikes back viciously."

"Today we have a real problem of what to do when a kid drops out of school and is on the loose. Unions don't want them. He can't complete intellectually with others.

"These youngsters seek acceptance the only way they know how. They join gangs. They gang together for social reasons. Then maybe at a beer bust, there is a fight and someone gets hurt.

"You can't change them by manhandling them or by leniency. You must understand them."

"To force parents to be good parents in very difficult. After 18 years, I have seen parents, whose parents were in trouble."

In many cases with these parents we asked for some strength they didn't have. There just was no family strength. We have an example of a juvenile problem in the Woodrow Wilson school area. We are moving grades about, changing youths around, changing their concepts and having them get acquainted with other people."

Foster — "We have three clinical psychologists and two counselors on our staff. I think we should examine sociological, housing and gang problems . . . consider . . . more places for youths to release energy."

Fred Goodell, representing the Jefferson Union High School District: "The school's counseling program reaches all the children in the high school. It has been developing and growing in strength . . . doing more effective work. A year or two ago the school system hired a school psychologist to help students' emotional problems. But we found that we couldn't make any impact because of the number of children."

Captain Roy Beecher of the Daly City police department cited Daly City Juvenile Statistics:

In relation to the number of crimes reported in Daly City in one year . . . 6½ per cent were committed by juveniles. Sixty-two per cent were committed by local youth.

Chief Roland Petrocci of the Daly City police commented on statistics:

"Methods vary from one department to another. For instance a burglary might be a misdemeanor in one department and listed as something else in another . . . San Mateo County has been (active) in various ways of reporting. The way it is now, I'd hesitate to say whether our juvenile problem is good, bad or indefferent.

Petrocchi . . . "Statistically we don't place too much stock on a comparison basis with other departments. We base comparisons on our own statistics.

"I wouldn't hesitate to say (regarding juvenile police work) we're holding our own."

In a letter to the board, Fred O. Goodell, business manager, noted that by June 30, 1962, the City of Daly City will have spent approximately $53,000 on the development of Westmoor Park. He is an active member of the San Mateo Elks Club. He has been engaged in general law practice in San Mateo for the past two years.

In accepting his appointment as treasurer of Conti's campaign, Bollhoffer stated: "Ross Conti is a veteran member of the tax collector's office and during his tenure created many of its tax saving administrative procedures which have gained state-wide recognition. Conti is a dedicated civil servant — not a politician. I hope all citizens interested in preserving efficiency in this important department of our county government will join our campaign for Conti's election."

Baby Burned By Vaporizor

An 11-months-old baby boy was treated in Junipero Serra Hospital Wednesday morning, April 25, for second and third degree burns suffered when he pulled an electric vaporizer over on himself.

The child, Billy Ashley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ashley, 112 McKinney, Pacifica, was treated at the Pacifica fire station before being rushed to the hospital. The child was burned on the head and shouler.

Theft At Tool Shed Reported

A burglary was reported at the Peter Satorio Construction Company, 140 Reiner street, Colma, on April 26, according to Daly City police.

A hasp was pried from a door of a tool shed at the new construction site of the Colma school. Stolen were one set of hoses and guages for an acetylene torch and 150 pounds of nails, altogether valued at $207.

Pacifica Sailor On Atomic Sub

Lewis T. Crosse, chief electrician's mate, USN, son of Mrs. Fred N. Crosse of 319 Heathcliff drive, Pacifica, is serving aboard the nuclear-powered ballistic missile submarine USS Thomas A. Edison, observed by President John F. Kennedy during a two-day visit on April 13 and 14 to the Atlantic Fleet at Norfolk, Va.

Families Aim At Up-Dating Bathrooms

Gone are the days when one overhead fixture sufficed to light a kitchen. The modern well-lighted kitchen contains a combination of two types of lighting.

The first, general or fill-in lighting, can be obtained from ceiling fixtures. The second, local or functional lighting, focused on a given area for visual tasks, should come from fixtures installed as close as possible to the work centers.

Convenience is the key word in kitchen lighting. A good level of general illumination permits one to see easily into drawers and cabinets.

Special fixtures such as fluorescent tubes placed beneath upper cabinets provide lighting over work counters where food is prepared. Recipes and labels can be read easily, ingredients can be measured accurately.

Sink Area Lighting

The sink area also needs additional lighting from directly above so that one can see properly while cleaning food and utensils.

Although many kitchens feature a window just above the sink, daylight is unreliable and much use is often made of the area at night.

The range is another place where local lighting is desirable. Being able to see down into pots and pans is important since it is the changes in color and consistency of food as it cooks that indicate when it is "done."

An expert cook demands excellent light over the range so as to observe these important changes as they occur. Precise "timing" in food preparation may be more easily achieved with good functional lighting at the range.

Even though most refrigerators have good interior illumination the additional overall light that comes from ceiling fixtures is most helpful.

Decorative Value

The decorative assets of lighting should not be overlooked while stressing the functional. In choosing color schemes for remodeling or modernizing kitchens, it should be remembered that lighter colors reflect light while darker shades absorb it. Thus more light will be needed in a room with dark surfaces.

The trend toward decorative fixtures to supplement the general lighting in a kitchen gives full play to the imagination. the wide choice of lighting fixtures available, reflecting every period of design history, permits expression of personality.

Kitchen Job Done Step AT A Time

Kitchen modernization won top place in a recent survey, in which homeowners were asked what improvement projects they were contemplating.

This is not surprising. Usually the first room in a home to "show its age" is the kitchen. New advances in kitchen equipment seem to come almost as rapidly as in women's fashions. Then, too, the constant in-and-out traffic and the day-in-day-out use that the room gets tends to make a kitchen "old before its time."

The best part about kitchen modernization is that the whole job need not be done at once. It can well be a step-by-step program, in which the most urgent needs are given top priority, and progress is geared to the "state of the budget."

It is amazing (and most gatifying) what a difference the installation of one or two of the new attractively styled, work-saving appliances or storage units can make in the efficiency and apearance of a kitchen. Indeed, just re-covering the counter-surfaces or redoing the floor or walls can give the room a "new look."

Planning Ahead

If you decide to modernize your kitchen a step at a time, it is important that you keep in mind from the very beginning what your ultimate "dream kitchen" will be like. By so doing, you can plan ahead for future installations of wiring and plumbing.

Here is a check list of the characteristics of a truly modern kitchen which may prove helpful in your planning:

1. Step-saving. Today kitchens are planned for time-and step-saving efficiency. Appliances are grouped so that the homemaker can quickly turn from one to the other.

2. Easy-to-maintain surfaces. Plastic laminates are used extensively for cabinets, wall surfaces and counter tops. The homemaker appreciates the advantages of a surface that can be kept clean with a damp cloth.

Functional Lighting

3. Lighting where it should be. No homemaker likes to work in her own shadow. For this reason, the trend is to get away from cente rlights and instead have them under the cabinets. The ideal set-up is to have a light for every countertop.

4. Trafic patterns. It is desirable that there be no direct flow of traffic through the main part of the kitchen.

5. Built-in ranges and ovens. Many of the new ranges offer automatic top burner heat controls on the gleaming surface units, oven rotisseries, easy-to-clean features, etc.

6. Work savers. The two appliances that probably do more than any thers to eliminate tedious chores are the automatic dish washer and the food waste disposer.

Three Indecent Exposure Cases

Three cases of indecent exposure within a week were reported to Daly City police.

A man driving a 1956 Ford exposed himself before girls, 12 and 13, in front of 62 Windsor on April 24.

A 37-year-old woman was the victim, April 23, of indecent exposure at 1390 South Mayfair. She described a man driving a 1954 Plymouth.

Two girls reported a man wearing a checked shirt and tan slacks exposed himself and fled at the Colma School on April 17.

"WHY?"

By Paris B. Simmons

Article No. 1

It is most easy for a community to disregard its responsibility towards the problem of juvenile delinquency, or crime, by stating that it is the responsibility of the parents. Indeed the parents do have a responsibility, but when such parents are unable to cope with the problem, or are delinquent themselves, then the community must take action.

This is a series dedicated to the community, with the sole purpose of attempting to reduce the number of outrages by juveniles in this area, through community action. It is not a criticism of any law or legislative body,—for it supports both and desires to work with them in finding adequate solutions to this mounting problem.

This is not a criticism of the 90% responsible youth in Daly City, but an attempt to help the 10%, and keep any of the 90% from going astray. If the percentage figure is not clear to the reader, consider an enrollment for the high school of say approximately 4,800 students. Of this number 480 might be classified as delinquent or having a strong potential for delinquency, while the remainder would be classified as "good teen-agers." Add to this 480, a 10% from the 7th and 8th grades of Daly City, and you get another 200 teen-agers that are potential delinquents, or a total of 680. Of this number approximately 150-280 are picked up each year by juvenile authorites. The problem then becomes one of keeping the others under control, or catching them in overt acts which will refer them to juvenile authorities. (The frightening thing about these figures is that broken down on a per capita basis it means that there is a juvenile delinquent, or possible juvenile delinquent for every 70 individuals of the community).

There are many parents who refuse to allow their youngsters to attend the neighborhood theater because of this problem. In the past three months the author has met not less than four families that have moved from Daly City, because of their fear that their children might become involved. Shopkeepers have been harrssed with the problem, and are not certain what they can do. The recent gang warfare at Thornton Beach certainly indicates that action in the community must begin immediately, if we are to become the best city in the nation.

It would be easy to rationalize and say that Daly City delinquency is really only an extension of that from San Francisco,— but the facts do not uphold this. Any person may check the children's addresses in the recent Beach episode and find that those most serionusly involved had addresses from our community.

It is much more effective to treat a "cause" than a symptom, therefore the "gang" symptom is secondary to the basic issues involved in the overall picture of juvenile delinquency.

At the present time, the two most widely accepted gangs in Daly City are known as the "Black Barts," and the "Ivy Leaguers." Both of these juvenile gangs cater to a particular form of dress. While a great many of the teen-agers do not officially belong to either of the gangs mentioned, many do pretend to be members and to dress themselves accordingly. The drive for peer status and group recognition at this particular age is so very strong, that the youth allow themselves to be swallower up by a group or gang identification, without actually realizing or understanding what is happening to them.

Daly City citizens interested in working on this problem are invited to join with the author of this series, as private citizens, in reaching goals that will greatly lessen or eradicate the situation existing today. This single individual or a single group. It requires community participation and action. A phone call (after 5 p. m.) to PL 5-4588 is the first step.

Village Nursery School Loses Historic Home

The inroads of progress will this summer see the demolishment of the historic community center on Dunk street to make way for the freeway. Even though this building is in varying stages of decay, it has faithfully housed the Village Cooperative Nursery School for the past 12 years.

Through a recent decision of the Daly City Council, the Village Nursery School will have temporary quarters in the new Westmoor Community building. This temporary arrangement will give the school a working year to locate a permanent home.

In connection with the impending move and expenses of the school, the Coop is having its annual fund raising dance and raffle on May 12 at the House of Lawton in San Francisco. The public is invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Richard Hornung, PL 5-0352.

Mrs. Tilly Green, New Grant's Mgr.

Mrs. Tilly Green, a friendly young lady from Alameda, is the brand new manager of the W. T. Grant variety store in the Westlake Shopping Center.

She heads 40 employes (five men and 35 women) in the spacious store which sells a variety of quality merchandise.

Mrs. Green said she has worked for W. T. Grant Stores for about 20 years. She tells everyone she went to work at Grant's "to buy a new sweater."

Mrs. Green started working for Grant's at Pillsbury, Pa., and later attended the University of Indiana. Her husband, Hugh, is the owner of a variety store in Oakland.

Many Practical Ways To Heat Extra Room In Attic

The attic is one of the most flexible areas in the house. It can be remodeled into a bedroom, a den, an upstairs family room, or even an efficiency apartment.

Today there are many ways to heat the attic. The following are some of the methods used:

A space heater can be simply set on the attic floor. Space heaters use either gas, oil, kerosene or electricity. They are frequently the least expensive heating equipment to install, but they are not always economical to operate. Moreover, heat is usually concentrated in one spot around the heater.

Electric resistance baseboard units are relatively inexpensive and easy to install, and they provide more uniform heating than space heaters. Operating costs, however, usually run three to four times higher with this type of unit except in a few areas where electric rates are extremely low. To maintain heating efficiency with electric units, extra heavy insulation is recommended for attic walls and ceiling. Cost of this extra insulation often offsets the savings in the cost of equipment. Current usually required is 220 volt.

Expanding your existing central heating system is another way to heat the attic. This should be done with the advice of a reliable heating contractor, who can tell whether your heating plant is large enough to handle the extra heating load. Expanding your heating system should provide the finest heating if the heating plant is properly installed.

You will probably have fewer problems expanding your heating system if it is a hydronic (modern hot water heating) system. According to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, a properly installed hydronic system can be expanded easily without extensive alterations to the system.

A separate heating system can also be installed just to heat the attic. This system uses a small hydronic boiler which is sized for one-room heating jobs. A small, silent pump is used to convey heated water from the boiler through finger-size tubing to hydronic baseboard heating panels.

IRIDIUM

Iridium, one of the platinum group metals which is used principally as a hardener for platinum, is about eight times heavier than magnesium.

NICKEL-CADMIUM BATTERIES NOW

Nickel-cadmium batteries are now being produced in large quantities. These batteries, which provide long-life dependable sources of power, are used in such consumer products as electric shavers, portable drills and flashlights. They can be recharged merely by plugging them into a regular electrical receptacle.

USE OF LUBRICANTS

To keep machinery operating smoothly at the plant of the Huntington Alloy Products Division of the International Nickel Company, Inc., in West Virginia, about $160,000 is spent annually for lubricants.

ENCLOSED PORCH has been made suitable for year-round use by a gas heater vented to the outside directly through the wall behind it. Cool air enters the lower grill in front; heated air comes out from top grill.

Four Hurt In Area Crashes

Four area residents were injured in auto crashes April 24 and 25. All were treated at Peninsula Hospital.

Hazel Laverne Perati, 376 Seaside, Pacifica, suffered a fractured knee and multiple contusions April 25 when her car struck a retaining wall on Highway 1, just south of Devil's Slide. Highway patrolmen said the woman missed a turn. The car was totally wrecked.

Three persons were hurt in a three-car crash on Skyline boulevard at the Crystal Springs golf course on April 24. Officers said a car driven by Carl Danlen, Route 1, Colma, started to pass and sideswiped a car driven by John M. Souza, 25, of 130 Alta Mesa drive, South San Francisco. Danlen's auto went off the road, hit two trees and came back onto the highway. Hurt were Mrs. Flurry, with head injuries, and Carrie Kelly, 31, in the Flurry car, with head injuries. Louis Flurry, 26, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Daly City Man Named To Round Table

Arnold L. Panella, representative for Penn Mutual Life at Daly City, is listed in the 1962 roster of the Million Dollar Round Table of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Every member of the 1962 Round Table must have sold at least a million dollars of life insurance in 1961 or else have met the even stricter requirements for life membership by his sales in prior years.

Fewer than one per cent of the world's life insurance agents are Round Table members.

Fernando Rivera Holds Open House

The Fernando Rivera school will hold an Open House this week to allow the community to observe the regular education program in action.

Provisions will be made for the display of pupils' work in folders, textbooks and materials used. Parents will have the opportunity to view the audio-visual techniques used to supplement learning and the critical thinking which is being developed by the students. It is hoped that parents will obtain a good understanding of the educational program at Fernando Rivera.

The program for the week will include: Specific invitations to visit the pupils at work in their classrooms; library program in operation; glee club singing; orchestra practice; student council action; sixth grade arithmetic teams; speech class; and the open house on Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

INDUSTRIAL PLATINUM

Because of its unique properties, about 90 per cent of today's platinum is used for industrial applications.

Pacific Markets Take Over U.S. Market In Winston Manor

Pacific Markets will succeed U. S. Market in Winston Manor, 125 Hickey boulevard in South San Francisco, effective May 1. This store becomes the second unit in San Mateo County operated by Pacific Markets.

The Daly City store operated as Pacific Super Market, has been a Daly City shoppers' favorite since 1958.

Noted for its meat department, Pacific Market features fresh meat "where the butcher serves you." The new store will follow the policy of the Daly City store in the giving of S&H green stamps.

New meat display cases, a refrigerated egg display case and other features will be added. No employee changes are planned other than increasing the personnel to provide better service, the friendly Pacific way.

Pacific Markets also operate the Housewives Market in Oakland and the Town Market in Richmond.

Adult Swim Classes Open At SSF High

The South San Francisco Adult School swimming program will open a new five-week course for beginners, advanced beginners and deep water swimmers at the high school pool tonight, May 2, from 7 to 8 and from 8 to 9 o'clock.

Registrations will be taken through tomorrow, 7 to 10 p.m. at the high school. For further information, call the South San Francisco Adult School at JU 9-6285.

Knife Wielder Harries Police

A wild-eyed man with a seven and one half inch butcher knife in his trousers gave Daly City police a lot of trouble April 27.

The man, Earl Lesky Jones, 31, of 173 Flournoy street, who allegedly was involved in a knife fracas with San Francisco police days earlier, ended up trying to hang himself in Daly City jail.

He was booked for carrying a concealed weapon and bail set at $525. An additional charge was levied for damaging a blanket in his cell.

Police said Jones had been involved in a fist fight in a local bar and, enraged at his adversary, left the tavern and returned with the knife. Failing to find his man, he entered Jim's Donut shop and began brandishing the weapon.

Transportated to the police station, Jones, became violent and refused to walk. He was carried to his cell and went into a violent rage, tore a blanket from the jail into strips and formed a noose, tied the end to a bar and attempted to hang himself. Officer Robert Stables dislodged the blanket from the bar and the suspect fell to the ground.

When he realized his effort had failed, according to police, Jones began to bang his head against the cell wall. He continued this until he fell into a state of semi-consciousness.

Two DC Rape Cases Cleared

The arrest by San Francisco police of Thomas Norman Lindsey has cleared up two Daly City rape cases, officer Phillip LaBruzzo reported.

Lindsay, now held in San Mateo county jail on a variety of rape and sex offenses charges, has reportedly been identified as the suspect in the rape of a Daly City woman on March 1, 1961, and a 14-year-old San Francisco girl on October 10, 1961, in the Scenic Way of Crocker Hills.

The woman was assaulted, robbed and raped in an empty lot next to 161 Los Banos avenue as she came home from a movie. The 14-year-old girl was kidnaped, raped and robbed while with her boy friend. The suspect, carrying a rifle, tied up her boy friend and made off with the girl, police said.

CUB SCOUTS LOOK AT NATURE

The world around us — close to home — is under close scrutiny in May by cub scouts of the Lake Merced District, announced Richard Ross, local District Scout executive.

By learning about a wide variety of things in nature close at hand the cub scouts—boys eight through ten years old—are getting ready for more informal fun in the summer.

"Through this activity," Robert Evans, 325 Higate Dr., Daly City, chairman of the district's Activities Committee, says, "our Cub Scouts will learn the value of protecting birds that eat insects, preserving trees, the proper planting of trees and shrubs to prevent erosion, and using precaution to prevent forest and grass fires."

"Understanding leads to the practice of important rules of nature," he added.

During May at their weekly cub pack meetings the cub scouts are introduced to the nature activity. A woodland picture is displayed and each member sees how many different specimens of nature he can identify. While answering the roll call, cub scouts call out the name of a bird and quickly describe it.

At another meeting the cub scouts and their leaders walk to a park, vacant lot, or zoo. Cub scouts are encouraged to observe carefully and ask questions. They collect specimens for their den museum.

Each cub scout is aided in learning to know a few easily identified birds, trees, insects, water animals, and small ground animals. He often is aided by his parents in exploring, diagramming, and recording the secrets of his own personal "claim," a small area of a pond, meadow or wood lot near his home.

By taking part in this activity the cub scout earns credit in his achievements and electives.

In constructing temporary homes for small animals the cub scouts will learn to consider the natural environmental needs for each type of life.

In these nature activities, cub scouts test their skill in making things to carry out their projects. They will use, for example, broom handles and soup strainers or some cheesecloth made into dip scoops for water life specimens. They may make aquariums for fish, tadpoles, and snails or terrariums for lizards, snakes, frogs, and turtles.

Cub scouts are taught how to make a specimen box from a painted cigar box by placing two layers of corrugated cardboard on the bottom of the box. An ant colony is made of a clear glass jar containing a small stone and sand. It is covered by a piece of cheesecloth held in place by a rubber band. Glass-sided boxes serve as snake cages with screens on top to contain a snake or two, while the semi-aquarium holds turtles and frogs.

Since cub scouts are very frequently owners and riders of bikes, some attention is being given in May to promote safe cycling. Repair shops and bike retail stores are helping the cub scouts by setting up bike inspections and furnishing them helpful information on proper bike care.

Seniors Discuss Bill On Aging

The Westlake Senior Citizens Club heard a talk by Emerson Midgett at the April 25 meeting. Midgett is a member of the advisory board of the National Council of Senior Citizens and was a delegate to the recent White House conference on aging.

He talked about the King-Anderson bill before Congress and what it means to senior citizens and to every man and woman as they become 65 years of age.

The planned programs for the club's future meetings include talks, picnics, visits to industrial plants and the bimonthly color motion pictures and travelogues. The club meets every Wednesday from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the Westlake Community Baptist Chrch and is a non-sectarian organization.

Spanish Only Spoken At Spanish Club Dinner

The annual dinner by the South San Francisco High School Spanish Club was held April 11 from 5:30 to 8 p. m. at the Estradas Spanish restaurant in Daly City.

Approximately 17 Spanish students, accompanied by the club's adviser, Mrs. Margherite Westh, and her husband were present. Mrs. Westh remarked "I gave extra credit to those students who spoke only Spanish at the dinner." Lively Spanish records played during the dinner were accompanied by the voices of John Larson and Mary Kay Finnegan.

Decorations consisted of brightly colored Spanish posters. "The food was good and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves," stated Mrs. Westh.

Owners of California's nine million motor vehicles paid a record $264,400,000 in license and registration fees last year.

Founders Day May 7 Honors A. P. Giannini

Founder's Day ceremonies will be conducted Monday morning, May 7, by local Bank of America staff members honoring the late A. P. Giannini, whose revolutionary banking ideas provide the drama for a national television program next week, May 6-12.

In the ceremonies marking Giannini's birthday, President S. Clark Beise will address the organization's worldwide staff by recording, reminding them of the bank founder's concepts of taking bank services to the people — concepts initially opposed but later embraced by many bankers throughout the country.

The story of Giannini's founding of the Bank of Italy—now the Bank of America—will be dramatized nationwide on the NBC television program, Death Valley Days, beginning in California on May 6.

The half-hour drama, entitled "The Unshakable Man," stars actor Tony Martin as A. P. Giannini.

Giannini was born in San Jose on May 6, 1870. Since his death in 1949, his birthday has been observed by the bank as Founder's Day.

It's News To Vets

Q.—I am a veteran on the VA pension rolls. I have been awarded food, clothing and shelter following the recent storms that damaged my home on the coast. Now I hesitate to accept funds for the restoration of my house because they would raise my income above the limit permissible to draw my pension.

A.—Any assistance in the nature of restoration of housing, food, clothing, shelter, medical care, etc., to victims of disasters is not considered as income for the purpose of determining eligibility to VA pensions.

Q.—May two or more periods of marriage between the same two people be tacked together so as to satisfy the marital requirement "for five or more years" when a widow seeks a pension?

A.—No. Where a woman and a veteran were married and divorced and married to each other again after which he died, only the date of their last marriage is considered in determining whether the widow of the veteran comes within the requirement relating to marriage "for five or more years."

Q.—My husband was killed in service during World War II. If our son is eligible for the War Orphans Education program, at what age could he qualify?

A.—The age period, generally, is between 18 and 23, but there are exceptions. The benefit may be provided for children under 18 if they have graduated from high school or if they are above the age of compulsory school attendance and the VA finds it would be to their best advantage to begin schooling before reaching 18. Some handicapped children may begin a special vocational or restorative course as early as age 14. Please get in touch with the nearest VA regional office for details on eligibility, vocational counseling, and application for entrollment.

Wide Variety Of Flooring Materials Now Available

The home-owner who is considering the new flooring tiles for one or more rooms in his house, will find a bewildering variety of types of materials available.

Each type has its own special properties, and each was needs. In order to pick the best type for a specific place and purpose, it is well to know all the different kinds and their principal features.

VINYL (tile or sheet) is tough and non-porous, and highly resistant to wear. It comes in clear colors and special effects. The more vinyl content, the higher the price.

VINYL ASBESTOS makes a good all-around, low-cost floor. It is available in a wide variety of colors and designs. It resists stains and wears well.

LINOLEUM (tile or sheet) subdivides as follows: (1) Inlaid linoleum, which is durable, long-wearing and easy to clean and (2) embossed linoleum, which has texture interest, often resembling masonry.

CORK TILE makes an unusually quiet flooring and affords cushiony comfort under foot. While natural cork will not take the abuse of kitchen traffic, water damage, etc., cork with vinyl or urethane surface is highly resistant to wear, stains and washing.

ASPHALT TILE is lowest in cost of the tile group and is especially popular for use in finished basements and recreation rooms. It is, however, susceptible to dents and stains. Some types, though, are grease-resistant, and polymer-resin asphalt is also longer-wearing than other asphalts.

RUBBER TILE makes a cushiony, comfortable flooring and is exceptionally quiet. It comes in clear colors. A point to consider is that it requires constant wax care to maintain appearance.

PRINTED FLOOR COVERINGS are available in a wide variety of patterns and colors. They are probably the most inexpensive of all floor coverings and need no installation, since they unroll like a rug. The vinyl-surfaced types will give the best wear.

TERRAZZO, FLAGSTONE, MARBLE, CERAMIC are good looking masonry materials and make hard, durable floors. "Sealing" makes terrazzo and flagstone easier to clean. The new marble and ceramic tiles need no special protection.

Most of the resilient floor tiles are made in more than one gauge (thickness). Naturally, the thinner gauges cost less and are usually adequate for most home installations. However, if there are slight irregularities in the old floor surface, these may show through. Also, if exceptionally heavy traffic is expected, the heavier gauge material should be used.

Many Owners Can Do Jobs Of Paneling

Wood paneling is exceptionally easy to work with standard tools. This makes finishing off a room in the attic or basement (or paneling a room elsewhere in the house) a logical do-it-yourself project for many a home handyman.

Here are some helpful hints which should lead to a professional-like job.

Once wood species and pattern have been selected, ordered and delivered, it would be wise to store the paneling for several days in the room in which it is to be installed. Separating sticks between the pieces permit air flow and allow the paneling to adjust to the room's normal humidity conditions.

Horizontal paneling over framing does not require nailing strips; vertical does, however.

When paneling over masonry walls, back paneling and strips should first be coated with a commercial waterproofing material.

Nailing Strips

Three nailing strips, fastened to masonry with concrete nails, are all that are necessary for vertical paneling; strips for horizontal paneling should be placed every four feet.

Next on the agenda is precutting paneling to fit, and pre-finishing it as well. Panel finishing assures an even job—no chance for an unwanted two-tone effect or unfinished spots where panels are unfinished spots where panels are joined.

The basic steps involved in applying fine finishes to lumber paneling are as follows: First sand carefully with medium grade sandpaper to smooth out rough imperfections if necessary. Then use 3/0 paper to achieve a smooth surface.

Staining comes next and can be done either with a good commercial brand or by using pigment and mineral thinner. It is essential to test the stain on a piece of the same wood you are staining to make certain it is what you want.

Durable Finish

Once the stain has completely dried, apply a durable, glossy finish as follows: Apply a lacquer sealer and rub with 6/0 sandpaper. Follow with a minimum of two coats of clear varnish or shellac and rub smooth with 3/0 steel wool when the last coat has dried.

The pre-finished paneling is then ready to be installed and it should be blind nailed wherever possible, especially at eye-level. Blind nailing is achieved by nailing into the tongue of the panel so that the groove of the next piece of paneling will hide the nail hole. Number 5 finishing nails should be used and should be countersunk.

At inside corners trim off the moulded patterns and butt the new wall of paneling tight against the completed one. For outside corners, miter paneling edges or ends.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER SHARING, A NEW BLUEBIRD APPROACH

"Project Blue Bird," a new approach to the Blue Bird program which includes mothers of the girls attending the groups, has been initiated by the Camp Fire Girls organization. This program is operative only in the Westlake area. The Blue Bird program is the activity for junior members of the Camp Fire Girls, for girls in the second, third and fourth grades.

Under funds from the San Francisco Foundation some experimental groups have been meeting with all mothers in attendance with their daughters, which is contrary to the established Blue Bird meeting pattern of girls with a single leader. Mothers report that both mothers and girls are having a wonderful time! Girls report that they never want to miss a meeting!

The YMCA of San Francisco sponsors the groups, and YMCA Y-Indian Guide leaders aid Camp Fire leadership in planning for this special project, and take a part in seeing that mothers enjoy the meetings with their daughters, just as dads and sons enjoy the Y-Indian Guide program of the YMCA. Several member families of the YMCA who have sons in the Y-Indian Guide program also have daughters taking part in "Project Blue Bird."

Camp Fire and YMCA of San Francisco are equally interested in family programming, and the purpose of this special program is to foster the companionship of mother and daughter and to further family closeness.

The Peninsula Council of Camp Fire Girls administers the project program; the Council has been chartered by the National Council of Camp Fire Girls, Inc. for the past ten years; in San Mateo County it now serves over 2,000 girl members with funds provided by the United Crusade of San Mateo County. Thomas Jenkins, San Francisco attorney, residing in San Carlos, who has a Camp Fire daughter of his own and a son who has been active in Y-Indian Guides, is president of the Peninsula Council.

The project committee members who have helped develop the project are community leaders, interested in the YMCA and Camp Fire Girls residing in Westlake, Colma, San Francisco and San Mateo.

Members of this committee set up to administer and evaluate the project are: Dr. and Mrs. Guido deGhetaldi, Dr. Charles Hamilton, Mrs. Thora Keller, Mrs. F. J. Moroney, Mrs. Lloyd G. Moulton, Mrs. Warren Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raymond, Mrs. David Schwimmer, Mr. and Mrs. Gus N. Scourkes, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald T. White.

Staff members in attendance at committee meetings are: Jose Forbes and George McGregor, YMCA, and Miss Claire Barricks and Mrs. Julian F. Rowe, Camp Fire Girls. Dr. Hamilton, executive in the California Teachers Association, state headquarters, serves as chairman of the group. Mrs. Rowe is director of the project.

Leaders of the group give a double service by also participating on the project committee. These leaders and the school neighborhood from which girls attend are: Mrs. Guido deGhetaldi, Olympia school; Mrs. Thora Keller, Westlake school; and girls from Our Lady of Mercy, Thomas Edison and Abraham Lincoln schools, who attend in two groups led by Mrs. Lloyd G. Moulton and Mrs. F. J. Moroney. Three sets of sisters are represented in these groups.

Pairs of mothers and daughters take turns having the meetings in their homes, take charge of the meeting activity, and act as co-planners and co-hostesses.

This mother-daughter sharing and participation, while being tried out in a new way during this one year, is entirely in line with emphasis on the importance and values of family interest and participation in the Camp Fire Girls program that has been historically a part of the program since its inception in 1911 in New York City. For there has always been a role and responsibility for every adult member of a Camp Fire family. And today this philosophy of family fun and participation is being aptly carried out in "Project Blue Bird."

As a way of expressing this interest of both fathers and mothers in participating in the Camp Fire program with their daughters, a leader in Camp Fire recently wrote in her annual report: "Most parents like to know and be a part of what their children are doing . . . who their friends are . . . where they go . . . and what their problems are."

Camp Fire Girls, with the sponsorship of the YMCA of San Francisco, has offered this opportunity for mothers to participate this year in Westlake. And mother and girl members report that they are finding it an exciting way to take part in a meaningful activity together.

During September, the report and findings on the mother-daughter program will be reviewed by the project committee and other interested groups with national representatives from the two national organizations in attendance as resource and advisers.

California Observes 'Hire A Veteran Week'

All of California will unite in observing "Hire a Veteran Week" which will start on Monday, May 7.

One of the men spearheading the week is Blaine Glendening, a long time resident of Daly City, and former chairman of the San Francisco Bay Area Advisory Committee to the State Department of Employment. Glendening was wounded in World War I and is the proud wearer of the Purple Heart, a decoration that can only be given to those who have been wounded in combat. A member of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, The American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, and Veterans of Foreign Wars he has, for many years been active in promoting the welfare of veterans.

Commenting on the significance of the week he said: "We hope to encourage employers to place their orders for workers with the State Department of Employment which is required by law to refer veterans, if qualified, to job openings before referring non-veterans. In this way employers can reap the benefits of the training and education that so many veterans received under the G.I. Bill of Rights following World War II and the Korean Conflict."

In conclusion Glendening noted that while qualified veterans are entitled by law to priority of job referral from the Department of Employment offices, it is the employer alone who selects the job applicant he hires.

Construction Underway On Produce Terminal

Construction got under way April 30 on the $2,700,000 Golden Gate Produce Terminal in South San Francisco.

The elaborate new building will accommodate the major produce dealers of the San Francisco Bay Area, who are moving from their old produce market area where the industry has been located for the past half century.

The old produce market area has been purchased by the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency and will be developed as part of the Golden Gateway project.

Actual construction follows two months of intensive work in site preparation. Wells Fargo Bank is financing the project. The real estate transaction was handled by Poletti Realty of South San Francisco and Repetto Realty of San Francisco.

The building program is moving along well ahead of schedule, according to Joseph Carcione, Best Fruit and Produce Co., president of the recently organized Golden Gate Produce Terminal. His organization is composed of the larger wholesalers who handle some 75 per cent of the produce business in the Bay Area.

Years Of Study

The move to South San Francisco climaxes several years of study and negotiations, during which time several sites were considered. The city of San Francisco had hoped to retain the produce industry, but the several proposed San Francisco sites proved less attractive and less feasible than the South San Francisco deal.

Newly elected officers of the Golden Gate Produce Terminal, Inc., in addition to Carcione, are: Vice President Russell Rustici, Sunset Produce Co., Secretary Richard Meyerhoff, A. Levy and J. Zentner Co., and Treasurer Joseph Tarantino of Lee Ray-Tarantino Produce Co. These officers also serve on the terminal board of directors along with San Carcione, Scatena Galli Fruit Co.; Hector J. Giuntini, Half Moon Fruit and Produce Co., and Phil Pipia, Pipia Produce Co.

Carcione pointed out that the South San Francisco site is ideal, not only for serving San Francisco customers, but retail outlets and buyers throughout the entire Bay Area.

Choice Property

Located on 16 acres of choice industrial property just west of Bayshore Freeway and within a mile of San Francisco International Airport, the new market will have excellent rail and highway access. Carcione also said that proximity to International Airport was a major factor because of an increasing volume of business being handled by air.

Land for the new market cost $640,000. Site preparation and actual building construction will run in excess of $2,000,000.

William Harr of Harvis Construction Co., South San Francisco, was granted construction contract and has promised completion by mid-November.

The new market will consist of 68 separate stalls and will accommodate most of the other smaller produce operators now located in the old produce area who have not yet indicated their choice of new sites. However, because Golden Gate Produce Terminal represents the major dealers it is expected that the South San Francisco market will eventually attract a large majority of the other smaller firms.

"We are prepared to accommodate everyone in the new market," Carcione said.

Meanwhile, the produce operators have received the "red carpet" treatment from South San Francisco and San Mateo County officials, including Mayor Leo Ryan and Board Chairman Louis Chess, who promised full cooperation on the part of the city and county in helping the new industry get established.

Location in the northern San Mateo County communiyt offers a number of economic advantages in both initial cost of land and industrial taxes less than half those in San Francisco.

Close Tax Rates

Despite the apparent closeness of the tax rates of the two cities (San Francisco's rate of $8.31 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to South San Francisco's $7.08), land in San Francisco is assessed on 50 per cent of market value while property in South San Francisco is assessed at only 25 per cent. Therefore, the move to South San Francisco cuts Golden Gate's taxes in two.

These advantages work both ways. Mayor Ryan said financial benefits from the addition of the $55,000,000 annual gross business will extend into virtually every area of South San Francisco's economy. Hotels and merchants will be the first to feel the stimulating effects. Wells Fargo has already applied to the California Banking Commissioner for branch bank approval on the terminal site.

At least 700 new jobs will be created by the project.

In addition, the produce terminal is expectde to attract a dozen or more other peripheral businesses including truck and auto service facilities, cold storage lockers, ice plant, poultry and meat markets, restaurants, bars, cafeterias and coffee shops.

One and three-quarter billion cubic feet of natural gas is used annually in the production of high-nickel alloys at the West Virginia plant of the Huntington Alloy Products Division of The International Nickel Company, Inc. This much gas would supply the average home for more than 7,000 years.

Scout-O-Rama To Feature Fitness

The 10,000 Boy Scouts of the Daly City area and San Francisco are entering the home stretch of their big ticket selling drive, "Operation Salesmanship." Their goal: to sell 60,000 tickets to Scout-O-Rama, the giant two-day show at the Cow Palace, May 11 and 12.

This year's show will stress Sports America, keyed to President Kennedy's "physical fitness for America."

Prominent Bay area athletes will be on hand, including stars of the Giants and Forty-Niners. The pageant will feature a cast of 7,000 Scouts who will exhibit their skills in crafts ranging from survival techniques in the wilderness to the rigging of sailing craft and navigation at sea. There will be more than 300 exhibit booths, each demonstrating a phase of scouting.

There also will be such show-stoppers as a Scout bagpipe band, all garbed in authentic Highlander dress, and Samoan dancers demonstrated by boys who are of Polynesian ancestry. The bagpipe band is the only in California scouting circles and is believed unique in the United States.

Admission is $1, with youngsters under 16 admitted free when accompanied by an adult. Show times will be 7 to 10 Friday night, May 11, and 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, May 12. All net proceeds go to support year-round scouting activities in San Francisco.

Job's Daughters of Bethel No. 94 are participating in a special philanthropic project this year, that of giving personal service to the San Francisco Aid Retarded Children organization.

At present the girls are collecting clothing which will be sold at the Nearly New Shop on Ninth avenue and Irving street, proceeds going to the school and workshop.

COUNTY DOINGS

by JACK WOOD

County Clerk John A. Bruning has predicted a quiet primary election June 5 on the basis of current voter registration figures.

Bruning said that 211,492 are eligible to vote in the upcoming election. This is 13,984 more than were qualified for the last general election in November of 1960.

Since November of 1960 the Democratic party has lost 7705 members, Bruning related, compared with a 6510 loss for the Republicans. Current totals: Democrats, 111,309; Republicans, 93,767; Prohibition, 14, miscellaneous and decline to state, 6402.

Bruning said the present ratio of Democrats to Republicans, about 1.19 to 1, has been constant for the past two elections. Because of reapportionment of the county's two assembly districts last year, the southern district, the 26th, again has a preponderance of Republican voters. The Democratic margin in the northern 27th District has widened even more, however.

Of the total of 113,181 registered voters in the 26th district, 58,957 are Republicans and 50,682 are Democrats. In 1960 the Democrats were ahead 57,084 to 55,340.

In the northern district, on the other hand, the Democrats have 60,627 members, compared with 34,810 for the Republicans. The Democratic margin in 1960 was 17,893, nearly 8,000 less.

A large number of parents critical of the Pacifica school board administration showed up last week. They had with them a petition criticizing the administration of the Laguna Salada Elementary school district and the "influx of inexperienced teachers and amateur psychologists.

The petition maintained that the aims of democracy are "not being accomplished by the experimental philosophy of education as interpreted in this district."

Several letters were submitted defending the district's educational program, however.

Parents informed the board they "expect to work for a planned and organized curriculum."

TV and RADIO

By Mona Baker

Several months ago, KPIX embarked upon a most ambitious project of a year's series of locally produced public service programs referring to the entire project as "Community of Strangers." During the past week, two of these programs merit attention.

Telecast from Oakland's First Baptist Church was an unique religious opera called "Noye's Fludde" (Noah's Flood). With a cast ranging in age from four years to adults, the Ark was built in the front of the church as the chorus and cast told the story in song. The music was superb and altogether a most impressive production. Suitable for telecasting on any religious holiday, as well as the Christmas season, we do hope the program will be repeated.

Also rating bouquets was the story of the building of the Golden Gate bridge, as told by the men who built it, in a special documentary titled "The Bridge Builders."

To preview the program, the press was invited on a Bay Area cruise. As the film concluded, the curtains were parted and the guests found themselves directly under the bridge.

With special music composed for the telecast and historic films and photographs, the entire production was a most professional documentary. This program, too, should be repeated and we feel it stands a very good chance of winning an award.

Congratulations to Tennessee Ernie Ford who was awarded three gold records which signifies at least a million sales on three albums "Spirituals," "The Star Carol" and "Nearer the Cross." By GARRY NIVER

Championship boxing returns to Northern California this Friday night after a lengthy absence of several years. Eder Jofre, the bantamweight champion of the world, takes on local challenger Herman Marquez in the squared arena at the Cow Palace.

With the boxing game getting a rash pummeling from the public recently over the Paret death, this fight should restore some of the lost prestige.

Boht of the fighters are not the one-punch clumsy type which have prevailed in the local circles lately. The weight limit for the bantamweight division is 118 pounds, which sounds more like the weight of a ballet dancer than a boxer. But don't get the wrong impression. These two boys can hit with telling effects, but they can also box. The latter attribute is something that has been missing in the fight game over the past several years.

The emphasis has gone on the one-punch knockout artist. This is what the fans pay to see; consequently money hungry promoters would rather have the clumsy, hard-hitting stumble bum than the meticulous boxing master who displays his wares as an artist.

Our perference lies with the latter. A boxing master such as Ralph Dupas or Willie Pastrano has much more class and is much more colorful than the clumsy antics of Bob Cleroux or Sonny Liston.

Fortunately, everybody will be happy tonight. Jofre and Marquez can both hit with authority, along with showing the fans a supreme boxing performance.

Jofre, the vegetable-eating champ, has a record of 34 knockouts out of 43 fights — which compares with any of the heavyweight records around today. Co-promoter George Parnassus describes the unbeaten fireball as "pound for pound the greatest fighter I have ever seen." Aside from possessing the heavy artillery, Jofre has gone the 15 round distance and gained the decision on this superb boxing skill.

Marquez, the Stockton longshoreman, is known more for his boxing ability. The pint-sized gladiator has only stopped six opponents. Marques' overall record is 19-8-1.

Although there will be no United States television or radio broadcast of the bout — the money conscious media people feel that something like this wouldn't attract viewers or listeners — the bout will be broadcast and televised back to Brazil. Jofre will get the king-sized portion of the gate, having a $30,000 guarantee, and all of the rights to the Brazilian media enterprises.

Marquez is fighting Jofre for the future. The tiny lad is getting a flat $5,000, and when you consider training expenses and other fees deducted from this, it doesn't leave much. But Marquez is quite confident that he can upset the champ — something which 43 opponents before him have been unable to accomplish —and reap the rewards of a champion.

Co-promoters Lou Thomas and Parnassus have also scheduled 32 rounds of exciting companion features. According to Thomas, it is the "largest profight card ever held under one roof in the history of California boxing."

One of the semi-main ten rounders which is sure to excite the fans is the heavyweight match between Kirk Barrow and Billy Stephans. Stephans stopped Barrow earlier this year in the ninth round of a slam-bang affair at Kezar Pavilion. This type of fight will satisfy the needs of the people who like to see the one-punch fighter. Barrow and Stephens are capable of ending it with one swipe of the leather.

It promises to be quite an affair for Northern California ring buffs. Thomas and Parnassus have priced the tickets to suit the working man's pocketbook — which is an unique approach in itself.

Tickets are on sale at San Francisco's Whitcomb Hotel up until 6 p. m. Friday, at which time they will go on sale at the Cow Palace. We hope that this Thomas-Parnassus venture proves to be a success—both financially and artistically—and that the fans up here in the north will be presented with a few more championship fights.

ON THE SIDELINES . . . Ernie Schnurpfiel, former San Francisco State golf star, has switched his talents to the net game. He is now tennis coach at Capuchino high school.

Two former Peninsula League water polo stars, Dave Wedeking and Doug Wright, were named to the second team All-California Collegiate team. Both perform for SF State.

El Camino high's Mark Avelar was in a batting slump until just recently. The youth took up golf and has been hitting the baseball at a torrid pace ever since.

Clark Shaughnessy, the successful Chicago Bear coach, who spoke at the Daly City Rotary luncheon at Westlake Bowl last Wednesday, will assist football coach Vic Rowen at SF State.

We feel that Daly City Mayor Joe Verducci had quite a bit to do with Shaughnessy's decision to help the Gators. Joe, former State coach, is also a West Coast scout for the Bears.

Signs of Summer—Pretty North County lasses Loretta and Bonnie Godkin of South SF were seen enjoying the water sports at Lake Berryessa last Sunday. The transition from snow skis to water skis this season seems to be a rather swift one.

PUBLIC RECREATION SWIMMING AT T. NOVA

The Park, Beach & Recreation department of Pacifica announced last week that the Terra Nova swimming pool is now open for public recreation swimming.

The spring schedule is 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, and 1 to 4 p.m. on Sundays. Recreational swimming will be offered during the spring program, with classes of instruction and special interest groups included in the summer program.

Until clothing checkrooms are constructed it is requested that swimmers come to the pool dressed for swimming rather than planning to change in the locker rooms. Swimmers are also encouraged to leave valuables at home. Standard swimming pool regulations will be followed which includes the wearing of bathing caps for girls. Swimmers are to bring their own towels.

Admission fees that have been established are as follows: children below high school age — 25c; high school — 35c; adults—40c. Don Delbon of the Terra Nova faculty will be in charge of the program.

TENNIS

The seven tennis courts at Oceana High School have now been completed and are ready for public usage. There will be no reservation required unless extensive usage demands it, according to the Recreation Department. Tennis players are reminded that all users are required to wear tennis shoes while playing on the courts.

JEFF, WESTMOOR IN HOME GAMES

Indians vs Dons; Rams Host Hills

The weatherman emerged the only victor in the scheduled Peninsula League baseball games last Friday. An unexpected rain dampened both the spirits and the fields, forcing the cancellation of all nine scheduled battles.

This Friday both Jefferson and Westmoor will give local fans a chance to view them in action at their home parks. This will be the final action of the first round of play.

Coach Steve Mezzera's Jefferson Indians host Aragon at 3:15 p. m. on the Marchbanks diamond. At the same time, over at the hilltop campus of Westmoor, coach Rod Losberger's nine will take the field against the Hillsdale Knights.

This is the crucial week for Mezzera's Indians. The blue and gold charges from Mission street must come through with a victory Friday if they want to stay in the running for the title in the second round.

Jeff is currently resting in fourth place, right on the heels of the PL leaders.

"I believe that we are capable of finishing near the top if we can get by this week," said Mezzera. "While the other PL teams may falter in the stretch, our personnel will get stronger," the Jeff mentor predicted.

The Indians have the guns once they settle down. All of their three losses, which have been to the top teams, could have gone either way. Center fielder Rich Reitz is currently one of the batting leaders in the PL with a .422 average, and is expected to bolster the Indians' chances in the second round. Also showing good form of late are Mike Morton and Al Cacicedo. The latter, one of the best catchers in the league, is a candidate for All-PL honors.

In Aragon, the Indians will be meeting no pushovers. The Dons are currently tied for the fourth spot with Jeff and also need the win to stay in title contention.

Westmoor, the defending PL champs, have been having their troubles lately. The Rams, as usual, are hitting the ball at a bristling pace, but have had a few lapses in performance on the pitcher's mound.

Bruce Hix, last week's batting leader, collected two-for-four last week against South San Francisco, and his average dipped to an astounding "low" of .588. The slender third baseman is now in second place in batting, replaced by Cap's Wally Bunker at the top with a .615 average.

Losberger's forces will have their work cut out for them in engaging the red-hot Knights. Last week the Knights, behind the three hit hurling of Bob Yutzy, shut out Aragon, 2-0, and became a prominent factor in the title chase.

Losberger, whose team still has an outside chance to finish near the top, will go with either Dave Williams or Harry Brown.

Williams is the big frosh righthander who came of age during the South S. F. tourney. The bespectacled hurler is 0-0 in PL play. Brown, the Rams' veteran, was shelled by South S. F. last week but seems to have recovered sufficiently. The reliable pitcher is 2-3 in league play to date.

The rained-out contests will be re-scheduled at a later date this month.

Ben Franklin Vs. San Bruno Nine

The eighth grade recreation baseball team journeyed to Parkside school in San Bruno last week and was defeated by a score of 7 to 6.

Both teams have a return engagement tomorrow, May 3, at the Benjamin Franklin baseball field.

Benjamin Franklin used three pitchers, Don Giovannetti, Mike Dulac and Dennis Kelly. Only four hits were given up by these three hurlers but a total of nine walks proved their undoing. Both Steve Ross and Steve Hudgens had a perfect day at the plate with one hit and two walks each. John Dunn and Mike Dulac also hit safely.

Giants Invite Youths

The San Francisco Giants have announced an invitational program for youngsters at Candlestick Park during the school vacation period.

Through this program, youngsters in the nine to 14 year old bracket, when organized in groups, and properly sponsored and chaperoned, will be invited to attend weekday afternoon games (excepting Saturdays and holidays) as the guests of the Giants free of any charge.

Admission to these games will be written invitations only, and on the date assigned to each group. To obtain an invitation, it will be necessary:

1—For the sponsoring group, or its representative, to apply for this invitation in a letter to Walter Mails of the San Francisco Giants, at Candlestick Park. Mails will be in charge of the youth program.

2—Each request must specify the number of youngsters included in the group.

3—Each group must be accompanied by adult chaperones, in the ratio of one adult to ten youngsters. By accompanying the group the adult chaperones agree to remain with the youngsters throughout the game to the end and see that proper discipline is maintained.

4—Each group must agree to accept the date assigned to it, and obey the regulations governing their attendance.

5—Grandstand seats will be assigned to each group, but each group must agree to occupy only those seats assigned to it.

6—The Giants will honor as many requests as they possibly can — and it is their hope the program will afford pleasure to thousands of youngsters thruout the area.

7—Sponsorship will be limited to organized youth and welfare groups, i.e.—Churches, fraternal groups, Little League teams, C.Y.O., Police Athletic League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other organizations in that category.

Chase Ties State Pole Vault Mark

While Marine Lieut. Dave Tork was setting a new world mark of 16-2 in the pole vault at the Mt. San Antonio Relays last Saturday, a Westmoor High School youth was making his own indelible mark in the same event at the El Cerrito Relays.

Westmoor's fabulous Dennis Chase, who had topped all Peninsula League rivals in the pole vault this season, gave notice that he will give Tork competition in a year or two.

The slender Ram vaulter grabbed first place in that event at the prep relays with a leap of 13-9¾ — equaling the best prep mark in California this year, and only a quarter of an inch off the nation's best prep mark.

Chase regained some of the Peninsula League's lost prestige in the North State's most important prep track gathering. His soaring vault gave indication that the 14 foot mark is not too far in the future for the Westmoor youngster.
